INTRODUCTION

A LETTER FROM THE ACTING EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND BOARD CHAIR

Dear Friends,

This spring, Green Mountain Farm-to-School turns a decade old! As we reflect on the past ten years, we are reminded of our successes; growing from a single school garden to a leader in the national farm-to-school and local food movements.

We are reminded of how important it is that every child has access to healthy food and the contributions we have made.

Over the last ten years, we've distributed over $1.4 M in local food via Green Mountain Farm Direct, facilitated the production of over 21,000 pounds of produce for cafeterias from school gardens, conducted over 4,200 school workshops with students, provided over 6,000 free summer lunches to children from the Lunchbox food truck, and reached over 31,700 students.

We are so proud of what we've done thus far! Now is the time to look ahead and plan for the next ten years.

Currently, we are focused on implementing our 2018-2021 strategic plan*. This plan provides a path forward to building a local food system in Vermont that promotes environmental stewardship, creates a sustainable local economy, and nurtures the health and well-being of our children and community.

Through holistic, high-quality and high-impact programming, strong community partnerships, strategic communication, effective engagement with employees and board of directors, along with financial strength and stability we believe we can meet our goals and build the Vermont we dream about - one where all children enjoy healthy, local food and farms thrive.

This annual report provides a snapshot of the successes of the last year and serves as an inspiration for future growth and collaboration with the community in the year to come. Thank you all for your generous support.

Sincerely,

Hope Colburn
Board Chair

In 2016-2017, 6 AmeriCorps members, serving through the Lyndon Economic opportunity AmeriCorps Program (LEAP), engaged with 2,067

educational workshops in the classroom, and, took students on 27 farm field trips.

Schools supported the local economy and made local food accessible to students by purchasing over

$170,000

in local food from Green Mountain Farm Direct.

Our school gardens produced over

2,200 LBS

of food for school cafeterias.

128 Taste-tests introduced students to new foods

70%

of our schools integrated compost food scraps into science lessons then fed product back into the gardens.

What Farm-to-School means to the community

“THE KIDS ARE ALL THAT MATTER BECAUSE THEY ARE THE NEXT GENERATION”

“I think most of us that are in the local food movement would say that the kids are all that matters because they’re the next generation. And for me, it’s not only that I am interested in the health of the kids, but I am interested in changing habits over time.”

Pete Johnson

Farm-to-School strengthens the connections communities have to fresh, healthy, local food by engaging students in hands-on education and empowering families and educators to make healthy food choices.

GREEN MOUNTAIN FARM DIRECT

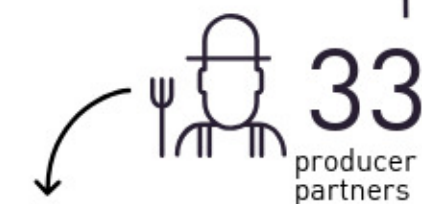

Fresh. Local. Direct.

Green Mountain Farm Direct links regional food producers with schools, grocery stores, hospitals, and institutions in the Northeast Kingdom and beyond. Together, we are strengthening the local food system by selling and distributing fresh, Vermont food.

In FY 2017, Green Mountain Farm Direct sold

$373,801

worth of product from

33

producer partners

to over

100

Northeast Kingdom schools, grocery stores, hospitals, and other institutions.

Green Mountain Farm Direct created and distributed marketing material for helping to promote and sell more local food in the community.

24 producer partners,

Vegetable sales grew

20%

over FY 2016.

The Green Mountain Farm Direct Effect

Started in 2006, Sharon and Greg "Smitty" Smith, have grown Smitty's Farm from 2,000 berry plants to over 35,000 today. They grow raspberries, black berries, and blueberries on 11 acres of land in Newport, VT.

For Smitty and Sharon, it's about more than just the farm it's also about sharing their love for the land and food with the community.

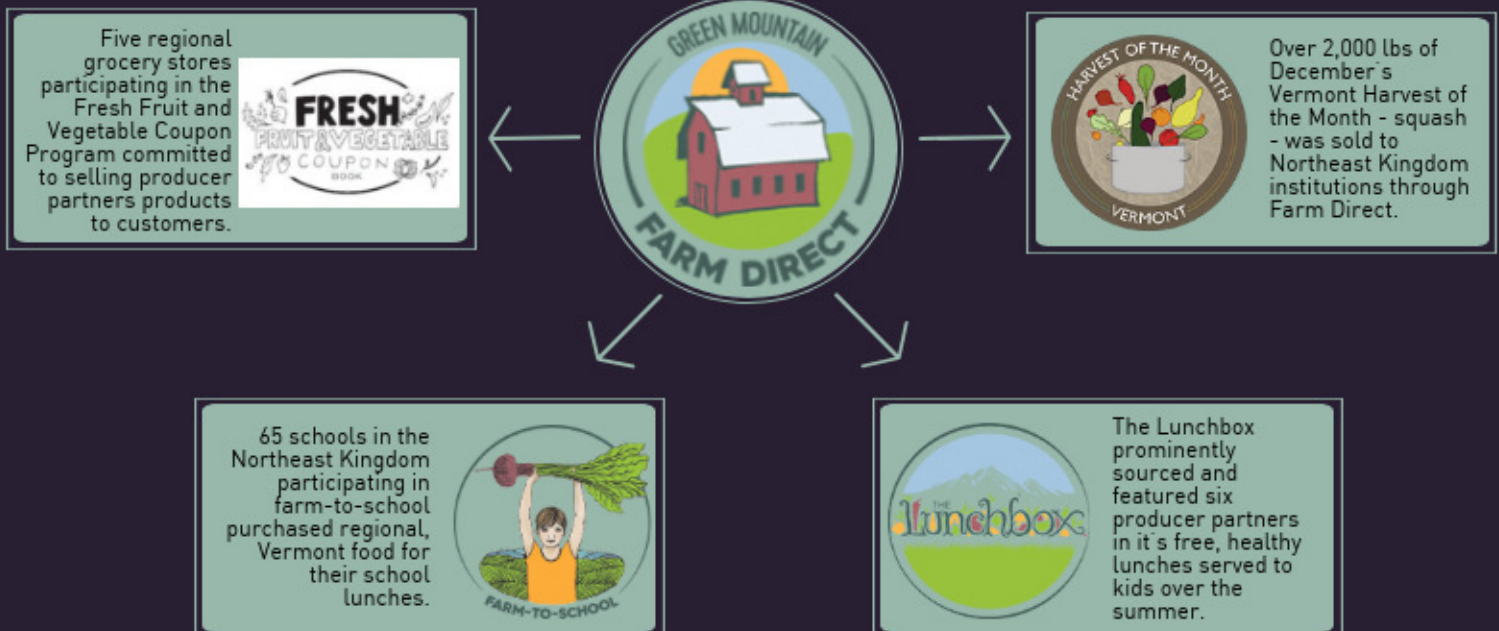

Smitty's berries can be found across the Northeast Kingdom. While Smitty's Farm does distribute directly, they also work with Green Mountain Farm Direct. They say their relationship with Green Mountain Farm Direct has helped their business tremendously. "It has a further reach," says Smitty. "It's the distribution feature, that can move (the berries) around."

"WITH GREEN MOUNTAIN FARM DIRECT, WE HAVE FURTHER REACH - IT'S THE DISTRIBUTION FEATURE THAT CAN MOVE THE BERRIES AROUND."

Greg 'Smitty' Smith,
Smitty's Farm, Newport, VT

VERMONT HARVEST OF THE MONTH

Be a part of the Harvest.

Vermont Harvest of the Month (VTHOM) is changing the way Vermonters eat and think about food. VTHOM is guiding the community through a year of cooking, eating, and exploring Vermont's local and available harvest.

Each year, stakeholders take the VTHOM pledge in commitment to local, seasonal eating.

Who took the pledge in 2017?

168

Schools and educational institutions,

4 healthcare providers,

7

retailers and restaurants,

13

non-profit organizations.

Retailer taste-tests and cooking demonstrations with local food coupled with marketing material aim to promote and increase sales.

Ready-to-go, free, teaching materials and resources make it easy for educators to integrate VTHOM into classroom learning, teaching kids about local foods

VTHOM saw a

47%

growth in sales of VTHOM crops through GMFD in FY 2017.

How does Harvest of the Month support GMFTS programming?

VTHOM monthly posters and shelf tags help customers find fresh, Vermont-grown vegetables in their grocery stores.

Thousands of pounds of VTHOM related product are provided to schools, businesses, and other institutions from Green Mountain Farm Direct farmers.

Partner schools feature a unique VTHOM dish each month in the cafeteria and conduct thousands of VTHOM taste tests each year with students.

VTHOM taste tests and monthly activities help continue the students' nutrition and agriculture education in the summer months.

THE LUNCHBOX

Feel good lunches for our kids and community.

The Lunchbox partners with communities throughout the Northeast Kingdom to serve free summer meals to children that feature locally-grown food and to provide food-based education during the summer months.

In 2017, the Lunchbox served more than

L free meals to local children.

During summer meal service, the Lunchbox collaborated with community organizations,

to provide bike safety training, literacy awareness, and other health-related educational opportunities.

In addition to free kids meals, the Lunchbox sold

835

L meals to adults, with all proceeds going to support the summer meals program.

The Lunchbox purchased

60%

L of ingredients from local farms.

The Lunchbox in Action!

Did you know school meals can contribute as much as 50 percent of a child's daily caloric intake during the school year?

During the summer, this source of nutrition is missing for many children. The Lunchbox aims to address this deficit.

For ten-weeks in the summer, the Lunchbox visits three different communities - Barton, Newport, and Island Pond - providing free lunches, engaging with families, and providing fun, hands-on food and nutrition education.

Green Mountain Farm-to-School partners with The Abbey Group, a Vermont food service company who is committed to supporting local farmers and communities, to bring the Lunchbox to towns throughout the Northeast Kingdom.

FRESH FRUIT & VEGETABLE COUPON PROGRAM

Fresh food for all Vermonters.

The Fresh Fruit & Vegetable Coupon Program makes accessing fresh fruit and vegetables easier for Vermonters.

In partnership with national non-profit, Wholesome Wave, the program is helping Vermonters enrolled in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), or 3 SquaresVT, stretch their food dollars, purchase fresh Vermont produce, and keep money in the local economy while supporting farmers in the area.

In 2017,

85% of the coupons were redeemed, totaling

$27,705

of fresh food purchased from local retailers in the Northeast Kingdom.

50 taste tests and cooking demos at participating stores encouraged the sale of local, fresh produce.

Over 900 households participating in 3SquaresVT received coupons.

In 2018,

$60,000

in fresh fruit and vegetable coupons are available to residents in the Northeast Kingdom.

LOOKING AHEAD...

2018-2021 Strategic Plan

In October 2017, we convened with staff and our board of directors to develop a robust strategic plan to guide our work in the coming four years. With this plan in hand, our organization strives towards achieving our vision to build a local food system in Vermont that promotes environmental stewardship, creates a sustainable economy, and nurtures the health and wellbeing of our children and our community.

Our strategic plan identified five high-level goals for the next four years:

- 1 | DELIVER AND CONTINUALLY IMPROVE A HOLISTIC SET OF HIGH-QUALITY, HIGH-IMPACT PROGRAMS.
- 2 | STRENGTHEN AND DEVELOP STRATEGIC AND COMMITTED PARTNERSHIPS THAT CAN SERVE AS A PLATFORM FOR THE DELIVERY OF OUR MISSION AND REALIZATION OF OUR VISION.
- 3 | ARTICULATE THE ENTIRETY OF WHAT WE DO AND POWERFULLY COMMUNICATE IT TO OUR STAKEHOLDERS AND COMMUNITY.
- 4 | ENHANCE THE HEALTH AND EFFECTIVENESS OF THE ORGANIZATION BY SUPPORTING EMPLOYEES AND DEVELOPING BOARD ENGAGEMENT.
- 5 | ENSURE LONG-TERM FINANCIAL STRENGTH AND STABILITY.

Thank you to our supporters!

We are thankful to our community of new and long-time friends who have generously supported Green Mountain Farm-to-School between July 1, 2016, and June 30, 2017, as we seek to promote the health of Vermont's children, farms, and communities.
